PROJECT

GECKO bug tracker (Ruby, PostgreSQL, Sinatra, HTML/CSS, Bootstrap, JavaScript, jQuery AWS S3, MVC)

live | github

Bug and issue tracking web app that helps software teams identify, record, and track bugs in their software.

- Structured data and their relationships by designing a SQL database schema and using Ruby PG gem on the backend to connect to the app, in order to ensure data integrity and data retrieval efficiency.
- Applied OOP paradigm to create objects that model common sets of data that a user interacts with and to encapsulate custom SQL queries as class/instance methods for the purposes of readability and modularity.
- Developed app features around 4 business roles (admin, project manager, developer, & QA) with login functionality using BCrypt to securely store hashed passwords and using ERB templating engine to only show permitted actions on page.
- Utilized Ruby minitest gem to create a full test suite in an effort to prevent regression, and wrote abundant comments to solidify good coding habits of writing human readable codes.
- Employed AWS S3 to store file attachments in the cloud for file storage reliability and scalability.
